A Model of Christian Charity

John Winthrop · 1630 (aboard the Arbella)

Source: John Winthrop, A Modell of Christian Charity (1630), text via Hanover College Historical Texts Project. Public domain; original 1630 spelling retained.

John Winthrop, first governor of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, delivered this lay sermon to fellow Puritans crossing the Atlantic. He described their colony as a covenant with God and a model for the world — the famous "city upon a hill." The sermon captures the religious mission, communal ideals, and sense of exceptional purpose that shaped New England society, in sharp contrast to the profit-driven Chesapeake.

Connect: How did the Puritans' religious purpose differ from the economic motives driving the founding of the Chesapeake colonies?

Key Passages

A covenant with God

> Thus stands the cause betweene God and us. We are entered into Covenant with Him for this worke. … Now if the Lord shall please to heare us, and bring us in peace to the place we desire, then hath hee ratified this covenant and sealed our Commission, and will expect a strict performance of the articles contained in it; … but if wee shall neglect the observation of these articles which are the ends wee have propounded, … seeking greate things for ourselves and our posterity, the Lord will surely breake out in wrathe against us;

Knit together as one > wee must be knitt together, in this worke, as one man. Wee must entertaine each other in brotherly affection. … Wee must delight in eache other; make other's conditions our oune; rejoice together, mourne together, labour and suffer together, allwayes haueving before our eyes our commission and community in the worke, as members of the same body.

A city upon a hill

> For wee must consider that wee shall be as a citty upon a hill. The eies of all people are uppon us. … Soe that if wee shall deale falsely with our God in this worke wee haue undertaken, and soe cause him to withdrawe his present help from us, wee shall be made a story and a by-word through the world.

HIPP Analysis

Model answers fill the first three rows. Use them to explain the author's Purpose in the last row.

HIPP Element	Your Analysis
Historical Situation What was happening when this was written?	The Great Migration of Puritans to New England (1630s): Puritans who wanted to purify the Church of England left for Massachusetts Bay to build a godly community.
Intended Audience Who was the source written for?	Fellow Puritan colonists on board the Arbella and the fleet sailing to Massachusetts Bay.

HIPP Element	Your Analysis
Point of View Whose perspective? Whose is missing?	John Winthrop, a lawyer, devout Puritan, and the colony's first governor, who saw the colony as a covenant with God and wanted to keep its members united and obedient.
Purpose What did the author want to accomplish?

Analysis Prompts

1. SAQ practice (A·C·E): Explain ONE way Puritan beliefs shaped the development of New England society.
2. What does the phrase “city upon a hill” reveal about the Puritans’ sense of purpose?
3. How might this vision create tension for dissenters such as Roger Williams or Anne Hutchinson?

A Model of Christian Charity

John Winthrop · 1630

Source: John Winthrop, A Modell of Christian Charity (1630), text via Hanover College Historical Texts Project. Public domain; original 1630 spelling retained. Non-contiguous passages are separated by [. . .]; shorter cuts inside a passage are marked with an ellipsis (. . .).

> Aboard the ship Arbella bound for Massachusetts Bay, the Puritan leader urged the colonists to build a godly community bound by love — famously calling it “a city upon a hill” on which the eyes of all the world would be fixed.

Opening

GOD ALMIGHTY in his most holy and wise providence, hath soe disposed of the condition of mankind, as in all times some must be rich, some poore, some high and eminent in power and dignitie; others mean and in submission.

[. . .]

The work in hand

2nly for the worke wee have in hand. It is by a mutuall consent, through a speciall overvaluing providence and a more than an ordinary approbation of the Churches of Christ, to seeke out a place of cohabitation and Consorteshipp under a due forme of Government both ciuill and ecclesiasticall. In such cases as this, the care of the publique must oversway all private respects, by which, not only conscience, but meare civill pollicy, dothe binde us. For it is a true rule that particular Estates cannot subsist in the ruin of the publique.

[. . .]

A covenant with God

Thus stands the cause betweene God and us. We are entered into Covenant with Him for this worke. Wee haue taken out a commission. The Lord hath given us leave to drawe our own articles. Wee haue professed to enterprise these and those accounts, upon these and those ends. Wee have hereupon besought Him of favour and blessing. Now if the Lord shall please to heare us, and bring us in peace to the place we desire, then hath hee ratified this covenant and sealed our Commission, and will expect a strict performance of the articles contained in it; but if wee shall neglect the observation of these articles which are the ends wee have propounded, and, dissembling with our God, shall fall to embrace this present world and prosecute our carnall intentions, seeking greate things for ourselves and our posterity, the Lord will surely breake out in wrathe against us; be revenged of such a [sinful] people and make us knowe the price of the breache of such a covenant.

Knit together as one; a city upon a hill

Now the onely way to avoyde this shipwracke, and to provide for our posterity, is to followe the counsell of Micah, to doe justly, to love mercy, to walk humbly with our God. For this end, wee must be knitt together, in this worke, as one man. Wee must entertaine each other in brotherly affection. Wee must be willing to abridge ourselves of our superfluities, for the supply of other’s necessities. Wee must uphold a familiar commerce together in all meekeness, gentlenes, patience and liberality. Wee must delight in eache other; make other’s conditions our oune; rejoice together, mourne together, labour and suffer together, allwayes haueving before our eyes our commission and community in the worke, as members of the same body. Soe shall wee keepe the unitie of the spirit in the bond of peace. The Lord will be our God, and delight to dwell among us, as his oune people, and will command a blessing upon us in all our wayes. Soe that wee shall see much more of his wisdome, power, goodness and truthe, than formerly wee haue been acquainted with. Wee shall finde that the God of Israell is among us, when ten of us shall be able to resist a thousand of our enemies; when hee shall make us a prayse and glory that men shall say of succeeding plantations, “the Lord make it likely that of New England.” For wee must consider that wee shall be as a citty upon a hill. The eies of all people are uppon us. Soe that if wee shall deale falsely with our God in this worke wee haue undertaken, and soe cause him to withdrawe his present help from us, wee shall be made a story and a by-word through the world. Wee shall open the mouthes of enemies to speake evill of the wayes of God, and all professors for God's sake. Wee shall shame the faces of many of God's worthy servants, and cause theire prayers to be turned into curses upon us till wee be consumed out of the good land whither wee are a goeing.

Closing exhortation

I shall shutt upp this discourse with that exhortation of Moses, that faithfull servant of the Lord, in his last farewell to Israell, Deut. 30. Beloued there is now sett before us life and good, Death and evill, in that wee are commanded this day to loue the Lord our God, and to loue one another, to walke in his wayes and to keepe his Commandements and his Ordinance and his lawes, and the articles of our Covenant with him, that wee may liue and be multiplied, and that the Lord our God may blesse us in the land whither wee goe to possesse it. But if our heartes shall turne away, soe that wee will not obey, but shall be seduced, and worshipp and serue other Gods, our pleasure and proffitts, and serue them; it is propounded unto us this day, wee shall surely perishe out of the good land whither wee passe over this vast sea to possesse it; Therefore lett us choose life that wee, and our seede may liue, by obeyeing His voyce and cleaveing to Him, for Hee is our life and our prosperity.

Words to know

providence — God's guiding plan controlling how things happen

ciuill and ecclesiasticall — civil and church; both government and religious authority

Covenant — a binding agreement with God that carries obligations on both sides

dissembling — pretending; hiding one's true intentions carnall — worldly, bodily, and selfish rather than spiritual superfluities — extras beyond what one needs