RADICAL RECONSTRUCTION

Congress Takes Control

Military Reconstruction, 1867

- The Radical Republicans seized control of Reconstruction.
- The Military Reconstruction Act split the South into 5 districts under army rule.
- To rejoin the Union, states had to grant Black suffrage and ratify the 14th Amendment.

The Reconstruction Amendments

Three amendments redefined freedom and citizenship

AMENDMENT	YEAR	WHAT IT DID
13th	1865	Abolished slavery everywhere in the U.S.
14th	1868	Granted citizenship and 'equal protection' to all born in the U.S.
15th	1870	Barred denying the vote based on race

The Freedmen's Bureau

- The Freedmen's Bureau aided the transition from slavery to freedom.
- It provided food, clothing, and—above all—schools.
- It helped found HBCUs like Fisk and Howard University.

Black Political Power

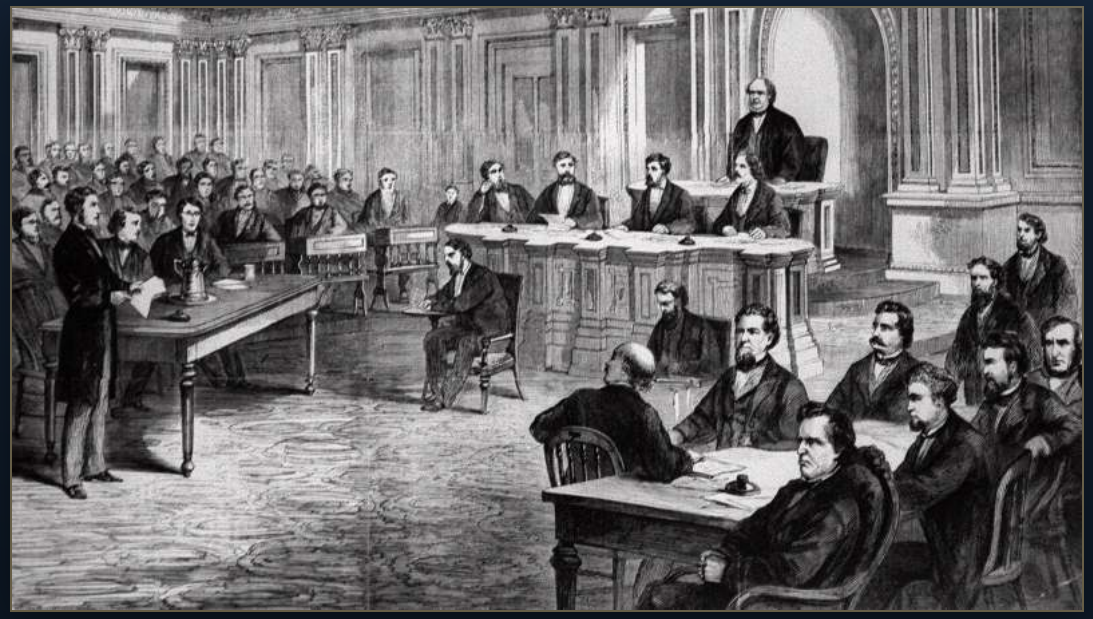

- Over 500,000 Black men voted for the first time.
- Hiram Revels of Mississippi became the first Black U.S. Senator.
- Sixteen Black men served in Congress during Reconstruction.

SECTION

A Clash of Branches

The Impeachment of Johnson

- President Johnson fought the Radicals at every turn.
- In 1868 the House impeached him.
- The Senate acquitted him by a single vote.

Securing the Vote

AMENDMENT

The 15th Amendment

Ratified in 1870, it protects Black men's right to vote.

→

TURNOUT

Black Voters Mobilize

Hundreds of thousands cast ballots across the South.

→

RESULT

Grant Elected

Ulysses S. Grant wins the presidency in 1868 with Black support.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Radical Reconstruction

1. Radical Republicans imposed Military Reconstruction and passed the 13th, 14th, and 15th Amendments.
2. The Freedmen's Bureau and Black voters produced a real—if brief—political revolution (Hiram Revels and 16 Black congressmen).
3. The struggle peaked with the impeachment of Johnson and the election of Grant.
